

ANNA HALL

Hi! I'm Anna - a UK-based Digital Marketer by day, and eco-warrior by night. Join me as I travel the world in search of ethical wildlife encounters and ways to get closer to nature.

THE BLOG

Would Be Traveller started in 2015 as a place for me to share my love of adventure with my friends and family. Fast forward three years later, it's now where conscious travellers come for inspiration and advice on how to be more ethical in their adventures.

My blog is an archive of wildlife and nature photography, responsible destination itineraries, eco-friendly accommodation reviews and information about ethical products.
